GUAM, SATURDAY, July 28 —The 20th air force showered 11 Japanese cities at midnight with some 60,000 leaflets warning civilians to evacuate or be burned out.

Thus for the first time in any war exact targets have been called in advance of bombing, the 20th Air Force Superfortress command laying down the most direct challenge to the Japanese to fight, quit or else.

By United Press

While Japan's leaders refused to heed the surrender ultimatum of the Allies, flimsy war centers of Omuta, Matsuyama, and Tokuyama, in southern Japan, blazed fiercely after being attacked by three task forces of B-29's—over 350 strong—shortly after midnight.

Flying through light Japanese fighter opposition and spotty flak, the giant bombers dropped 2,200 tons of gasoline incendiaries on the three cities.

The fires took hold and within a few minutes after "bombs away" had achieved a roaring conflagration.

The attack raised the 20th air force's superbomb total to 49 enemy cities gutted since the obliteration campaign began on March 10.

The main target apparently was Omuta, a Kyushu city of 177,000, with the biggest artificial harbor in Japan. It was the first attack on Tokuyama and Matsuyama proper, although B-29's previously had hit Tokuyama's naval fueling station and synthetic oil plant and the Matsuyama airfield.

Japanese broadcasts said another 200 land-based planes, apparently from Okinawa, had followed the B-29 strike with a three-hour attack on the Kobe and Osaka area between 6:30 and 9:30 a. m. today (Tokyo time).

The enemy reported 90 more American planes later flew over southern Honshu, but there was no immediate word of their targets.

Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle established his Eighth Air Force headquarters on Okinawa and promised that the aerial bombardment would be pressed relentlessly until the Japanese have been re-

Connally Confident Of Approval

Senators May Meet At Night To Meet Deadline On World Charter

WASHINGTON, July 27—The senate was faced today with the prospect of holding extraordinary night sessions if it is to meet its goal of ratifying the United Nations charter by the end of this week.

Thirteen senators were listed on the speaking schedule as the senate met today for its fifth day of debate. Chairman Tom Connally, D., Tex., of the senate foreign relations committee was confident, however, that the deadline would be met.

"We'll ratify it this week even though we might have to meet in the night Saturday," he told reporters. "Most of the long speeches are out of the way. The senators still wanting to speak won't take more than 15 minutes to half an hour each."

He pointed out that the tempo of speeches picked up considerably yesterday afternoon after long addresses by Sens. Warren E. Austin, R., Vt., and Claude Pepper, D., Fla., were out of the way.

Following them were Sens. Leverett Saltonstall R., Mass., John L. McClellan, D., Ark., James O. Eastland, D., Miss., Arthur Capper, R., Kans., and George D. Aiken, R., Vt.

BLUM ACCUSES PETAIN OPENLY

Former Premier Makes First Outright Treason Charge Against Aged Marshal

PARIS, July 27—Former premier Leon Blum charged today that Marshal Henri Philippe Petain destroyed France's republican institutions by force and substituted a "despotic power the like of which was never seen."

"That was treason," Blum, leader of the pre-war popular front, shouted at the peak of his denunciation of Petain. Occasionally Blum sobbed so heavily that it was difficult for him to speak.

Blum worked laboriously through a narrative of the scheming and turmoil of the government's flight from Paris in 1940 and eventual establishment at Vichy.

Coming to the issue of Petain's alleged treason, Blum said he was no criminologist and was unable to define the word. But he said Petain received a mandate only to revise France's Republican institutions.

Instead, he destroyed them and replaced them with "despotic power," Blum said, "and that was treason."

"In allowing himself to be dashed to the ground in despair and letting his country fall in a like manner—no, he cannot say he was a traitor."

FAST FIGHTER CAN CARRY 2000 TONS OF BOMBS

WASHINGTON, July 27 — A new fighter plane, capable of tearing through the skies at 460 miles an hour and firing rockets at the Japanese with the force of a destroyer's broadside is now in production, North American Aviation, Inc., revealed today.

North American said its improved P-51 Mustang, known as the P-51H, will have a combat range of 37 per cent higher than its predecessor. Earlier Mustangs had a range of over 2,000 miles.

The new fighter can carry 2,000 pounds of bombs under its wings and has fittings to carry 10 "zero rail" rockets giving it "a destructive blast equivalent to a destroyer's full broadside."

ATTLEE FORMING CABINET; CHURCHILL MAY QUIT HOUSE

Labor Government Expected To Be Complete Soon

LONDON, July 27—Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee tackled the job of forming Britain's new Labor cabinet today on a rush basis in hope of naming his key men within a few hours and clearing the way for his return to the big three conference at Potsdam by tomorrow.

Winston S. Churchill was packing up at No. 10 Downing street and easing reluctantly out of the role as Britain's warrior-statesman in the nation's wartime era of blood, toil, sweat and tears which culminated in the defeat of Germany.

There was every sign that Churchill would not return to Potsdam, and reports persisted that he was retiring to private life to write his memoirs, perhaps even surrendering the parliamentary seat to which he was returned in the balloting which gave the Laborites a landslide victory.

Truman, Stalin Wait

The Potsdam conference added a note of urgency to Attlee's cabinet discussions. Premier Josef Stalin and President Truman were waiting impatiently to finish up the talks begun with Churchill.

A foreign office commentator said that "there is a lot still to be discussed at Potsdam" and that it was not just a matter of finishing up discussions already initiated.

Attlee was expected to name Ernest Bevin, the tough Labor minister of the Churchill coalition government, to the foreign secretaryship held by Anthony Eden.

If possible, Attlee and Bevin will probably leave for Potsdam tomorrow.

Attlee was expected to make every effort to organize his new cabinet before leaving for Potsdam. Some quarters believed he would broadcast to the nation before leaving.

Attlee arrived at the treasury building early this morning, wearing a black coat and striped trousers. He set to work immediately.

DDT WILL GO ON SALE IN AUGUST, SAYS THE WPB

WASHINGTON, July 27—Civilians will get a chance next month to begin buying DDT, the wonder insect killer developed during the war, but the amount available will be limited for some time.

The War Production Board decided yesterday to allow limited production of the chemical for civilians in August due to increased output. WPB said the amount made for civilians, however, would meet only a small percentage of the demand and there could be no increase till military needs drop.

Wide experiments have been made with DDT for pest and insect control and it has proved amazingly effective. It is credited with preventing an outbreak of typhus in Italy after the Allied invasion and is being used successfully to protect American troops from mosquitoes in the Pacific.

Beaches have been sprayed with the insecticide in a test to see how well it can remove mosquitoes from an entire area, and the Yale Bowl was sprayed with DDT from a helicopter before a recent open air concert.

The WPB's relaxation of controls should solve the dilemma of Walter Steuber, Swarthmore, Pa., chemist who figured out the DDT formula for himself. He made it out of two non-priority chemicals, put it on sale in Swarthmore stores but was stopped by WPB officials who told him that though the ingredients he used were not restricted, the resultant DDT was.

Now, apparently, Steuber may go ahead and make DDT for Swarthmoreans.

Victory In Britain May Bring Greater Political Action By U. S. Labor

WASHINGTON, July 27—Socialism's triumph in Great Britain left the United States alone today among the major powers as a purely capitalist democracy.

One effect here of British labor's political victory is expected to be tremendous additional enthusiasm within ranks of American labor for direct political action.

That might involve a break away from the old line parties, establishment of a new labor party throughout the country and the entry of candidates for local and national office in its name.

Observers also look for some abrupt changes in British foreign policy now that control has shifted from old school tie conservatives to labor leaders. Typical of what may be expected is a new British attitude against the Spanish government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Harold J. Laski, chairman of the British labor party and a Socialist intellectual of international reputation, foreshadowed what is to come there in a statement last night.

"At long last," said Laski, "we are going to be in a position to do full justice to our Spanish comrades."

Labor Opposes Franco

British Laborites, the Russians and left wing elements throughout the world, including this country, long have been denouncing what they termed Anglo-American appeasement of Franco Spain. If the British break relations with Franco's government, it will be up to the administration of President Truman to determine whether to stand alone among the major powers.

LOCAL THUNDERSTORMS PREDICTED FOR WEEKEND

Slightly lower temperatures Thursday night seemed to indicate that the week-long heat wave was over, but as the day progressed, Friday proved to be just as warm as the preceding four or five days had been.

The weatherman predicts some added relief in the form of scattered thundershowers Saturday for Pickaway counties. The rain will be accompanied by near normal temperatures, the experts added.

The prediction for the next few days reads: "Scattered thundershowers Saturday and possibly Sunday and again Tuesday or Wednesday."

TRUMAN, STALIN AWAIT BRITISH LABOR LEADER

Big 3 Discussions Slated To Resume Today; No Statements Issued

SPECULATION IS VARIED

Some Say Churchill, Eden May Return To Potsdam With New Leader

POTSDAM, July 27 — President Truman and Premier Stalin marked time today, uncertain just how quickly new British prime minister Clement Attlee would join them.

The big three was scheduled to resume its conferences this afternoon. There was no word as to whether Stalin and Mr. Truman would meet alone if the British representative fails to appear.

London has issued no official statement concerning the sudden situation created by yesterday's resounding defeat of the conservative party, and Winston Churchill's resulting resignation as prime minister. The best bet appeared to be that Attlee will take time out to appoint only the key members of his new cabinet and then will return to the Potsdam discussions.

Some British observers still insisted that Churchill might return to the big three meetings, while still others believed that Anthony Eden, as foreign secretary, would be the man to complete British affairs at Potsdam.

Most observers got a great deal of satisfaction out of the fact that Churchill was able to join in with Mr. Truman and Marshal Chiang Kai-Shek in their ultimatum to the Japanese either to get out of the war or be destroyed.

They felt it only just that the grand old warrior got to take at least one more crack at the enemy before stepping down from his role as Britain's leader.

To many who have covered big three conferences in the past, it will take some time to grow accustomed to the absence of a certain cigar, a certain waspish grin, and a pudgy hand almost continuously giving the "V" for victory salute.

QUICK TRIPS TO ALL PARTS OF WORLD PROMISED

WASHINGTON, July 27—Passengers on Transcontinental and Western Air's giant Constellations will be able to leave Washington at 8 a. m. and arrive in Paris shortly after midnight when commercial operations begin over the North Atlantic, the airline announced today.

TWA recently was awarded air routes from the United States to Europe, the Near East and India. Definite date for inauguration of passenger flights has not been set pending allocation of aircraft by the Army and settlement of other matters, TWA said.

The airline plans to fly to Paris from Washington in 16 hours and 15 minutes. It will take only 42 hours to fly to Bombay, half way around the globe.

TWA said flight times were figured on the basis of performance of the Lockheed Constellation, four-engine, 57-passenger plane designed by the airline for foreign and domestic service.

Constellations are now used by the Army air transport command. TWA said it has them on option for commercial service when they can be released.

'PROMPT AND UTTER DESTRUCTION' OF NIPPON NEXT STEP

Truman, Churchill and Kai-Shek Warn Nips Refusal To Quit Now Means Mightiest Military Force Will Wreck Country

By United Press

WASHINGTON, July 27—Japan rejected the American-British-Chinese surrender ultimatum today despite the clear warning that she now faces "prompt and utter destruction" by the mighty Allied land, sea and air forces assembled in the Pacific.

The Japanese stand was announced by the government-controlled Domei news agency in a dispatch saying that Japan would ignore the Allied ultimatum issued yesterday in Potsdam and would fight on "to the bitter end."

Domei said the Japanese cabinet held a special meeting this afternoon (Tokyo time) to hear a report from foreign minister Shigenori Togo on the terms on which the Allies would agree to halt hostilities.

The decision to take no action on the ultimatum apparently was made at the meeting.

By its stand, the Japanese government itself rejected the last opportunity to halt the war without ending Japan's national existence and without bringing untold misery and suffering to her people.

President Truman, former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek made clear yesterday what Japan would receive if she rejected their final terms for ending the war.

Pointing out that swarms of Allied aircraft and hundreds of thousands of new troops were moving into the Pacific from the European theatre, the three leaders said:

"The might that now converges upon Japan is immeasurably greater than that which, when applied to the resisting Nazis, necessarily laid waste to the lands, the industry and the method of life of the whole German people."

"The full application of our military power, backed by our resolve, will mean the inevitable and complete destruction of the Japanese armed forces and just as inevitably the utter devastation of the Japanese homeland."

Invite 'Hari-Kari'

Japan laid herself open to that devastation and that destruction by rejecting the Potsdam surrender terms.

Before the Japanese decision was revealed, Chairman Tom Connally, D., Tex., of the senate foreign relations committee and other prominent senators warned that the alternative to the Potsdam surrender terms was "national hari-kari."

They expressed hope that Japan would be sensible and accept the three-power offer instead of continuing a struggle that could bring only certain and crushing defeat.

The Allies were ready—without delay—to unleash upon the Japanese a blow that would reduce their islands to rubble. Swarms of aircraft and thousands of men were being moved to the Pacific from Europe to hasten the end of a brazen bid for conquest that began at Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941.

'Bombarded' By Radio

The attempt to persuade the Japanese people to see the light, and to force their government to take the reasonable step now made possible for them, began by radio late yesterday. The Japanese were being "bombarded" by radio with texts of the three-power offer.

The American-British-Chinese surrender ultimatum surprised even some high circles here. But there was immediate and unanimous agreement that "this was it;" the Japanese must accept this and bring the war to a speedy end or face inevitable and complete destruction.

The Tokyo radio, in its first reaction to the three-power proclamation, pointed only to the absence of Premier Josef Stalin's name. This, Tokyo said, appears to indicate that President Truman failed in what he "obviously intended to do" at Potsdam—get Russia into the Pacific war.

British Offer No Help

Japanese propagandists sought to find some comfort in the overthrow of the government of British Prime Minister Winston Churchill. One enemy broadcast said this meant that the British public was "more preoccupied with peaceful reconstruction work at home than prosecution of a bloody, costly war far out in the east Asiatic theatre."

But Churchill himself made clear, in his statement of resignation, that his defeat would make no difference in Britain's determination to fight alongside the United States to end Japan.

"All plans and preparations have been made and the results may come much quicker than we have hitherto been entitled to expect," he said.

The Potsdam proclamation constituted a definition of what unconditional surrender means for Japan, and officials here emphasized that there would be no further quibbling; Japan must take it or face doom.

Knockout Punch Planned

Behind the warning of no delay was a statement by Gen. Jacob L. Devers, new commander of the Army ground forces. He revealed that the U. S. Army's mighty strength was being gathered for one big knockout punch at Japan's home islands.

If the Japanese are to avoid that Sunday punch, they must agree to unconditional surrender of all their armed forces, with adequate assurances of good faith. The Allies then will impose these terms:

1. Elimination "for all time of the authority and influence of the militarist, industrialists and others who have deceived and misled the people of Japan, and establishment of a new order in Japan of peace, security and justice."
2. Allied occupation of Japanese territory until such a new order is established and until Japan (Continued on Page Two)

JAPS BELIEVED TO HAVE QUIT BANZAI CHARGES

WITH U. S. SIXTH DIVISION ON NORTHERN LUZON, July 27 —An American general busy directing the killing of cornered Japanese on Northern Luzon said today he believed enemy troops have abandoned their famed Banzai charge.

Maj. Gen. Charles E. Hurdiss of Providence, R. I., tactiturn commander of the Sixth Infantry Division, also predicted that the heaviest Japanese counter-attacks of the war would come when American troops stormed the home islands.

He declared Japanese officers had ceased sending their men to the piece-meal destruction of Banzai charges and now used less spectacular but more effective larger forces in counter-attacking. For instance, the major assaults on Okinawa always were of battalion strength or better instead of 10 or 15 men leaping up and rushing seemingly to die for the emperor.

Speaking of the Japan proper invasion, Hurdiss said, "They'll have plenty of men and weapons. No one can say for certain what type of opposition we'll meet when we attack Japan itself but they will undoubtedly take advantage of the mountainous terrain."

But Churchill himself made clear, in his statement of resignation, that he was not at all sure that the British public was "more preoccupied with peaceful reconstruction work at home than prosecution of a bloody, costly war far out in the east Asiatic theatre."

duced "to a race of rice growers and goatherders."

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced a new 400-ton raid on Shanghai that left great fires on three of the China ports' airfields Tuesday and probably sank six freight-transports and a Japanese gunboat.

About 20 B-24's of the U. S. Seventh Air Force flew unescorted over the Kikai island in the northern Ryukus and Tsukiki airfield on northern Kyushu Wednesday. They fought 30 Japanese fighters over Kyushu and shot down seven, with an eighth probable, and lost one bomber.

There was still no word of the whereabouts of Admiral William F. Halsey's Third fleet, travelling under a radio blackout for the past 36 hours.

In Borneo Australian troops pursued fleeing Japanese units along the main highway northeast of Balikpapan, after RAF Spitfires had intercepted one column and strafed 16 vehicles.

Australia's Prime Minister Joseph B. Chifley, in a statement to the house at Canberra today, said the Australian army's forces in action would be reduced from six to three divisions as operations permit. He also proposed that an Australian token force be permitted to participate in the coming battle for Singapore, so they may revenge their fallen or captured comrades.

Elaborating on yesterday's reports of an Allied landing Wednesday on Puket island, off the western coast of the Malay peninsula, the Japanese Domei agency said today a carrier-based aircraft attack had preceded the "futile attempt" as well as a naval bombardment.

The dispatch, recorded by the FCC, however made no mention of continued action today. It claimed, "the enemy was completely driven away in the afternoon of the same day (presumably Wednesday)."

Attributing its information to a Thailand army communique, Domei said approximately 20 carrier planes participated in the pre-invasion assault "on Tuesday" with a fleet of carriers, cruisers, destroyers and transports carrying out a bombardment "on the following morning."

ATTLEE FORMING NEW CABINET

on the formation of his government.

Churchill To Stay Home

It was not believed that Churchill would accompany Attlee back to Potsdam although the new prime minister was expected as a courtesy to ask him to go along. Nor will Eden return to the conferences.

The foreign policy which the Labor government will follow was foreshadowed by Bevin in an address to the Blackpool labor conference May 23. He said then: "Security for peace must rest in the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union. The United States is a free enterprise country. The Soviet has a Socialist internal economy and Britain stands before the two."

Bevin declared that Britain must "show patience and toleration and try to obtain an understanding in order to come together for the common purpose of maintaining peace and developing a higher standard of living with a complete removal of fear."

He said that Italy should not be treated as though Mussolini was still in power and that relations with France must be strengthened.

Of India, he said: "We will close the India office and transfer its business to India. This very fact itself will give confidence that they are no longer governed from Whitehall." India's home rule responsibility, he said must be increased, year by year.

May Write Memoirs

What Churchill proposed to do still was unknown. Many believed he would quit parliament and devote himself to his memoirs. One report was that an American publisher had offered him a million dollars to write his recollections of the war.

The press analyzed the reasons for the Churchill debacle. The London Daily Herald, organ of the Labor party, said that he was "the architect of his own defeat" and said Churchill "committed political suicide."

The Times paid tribute to Churchill but agreed that he himself "introduced and insisted upon emphasizing the narrower animosities of a party fight."

"As a result," said the Times, "A great national program was allowed to slip into the background. The prime minister's own stature was temporarily diminished."

If Churchill decides to quit parliament, leadership of the opposition will devolve upon Eden.

Stock Market Active

The stock market reaction to the Labor victory was a flood of selling, particularly of British rail shares and high grade industrials. The Laborites are committed to nationalization of railroads.

Observers were picking bitter political foes of Churchill for cabinet posts. They included: Herbert Morrison as the new chancellor of the exchequer; Petrick Lawrence or Arthur Greenwood as lord president of the council; Lord Latham as lord privy seal; Emmanuel Shinwell as home minister; Ellen Wilkinson or A. V. Alexander as minister of state for war; Mason MacFarlane as first lord of the admiralty; Hugh Dalton as air minister; John Wilmot as minister of mines; Aneurin Bevan as president of the board of trade, and Sir Stafford Cripps as minister of production.

Little Change Expected

While the new Labor administration was likely to take Britain closer to the Soviet Union, Greece and the Balkan states and to adopt a "tough" attitude toward Franco Spain, most analysts looked for little fundamental change in foreign policy.

Attlee apparently was in full accord with Churchill and Eden at

USES OFFICE TO CLOSE

The United States Employment Service office, located in the basement of the courthouse, will be closed all day Tuesday, election day, Miss Mary K. Wolfe, manager, stated. Election booths will be set up in the office.

the Potsdam conference and it appeared certain he would continue along the broad lines laid down by them in the international theatre.

"No violent reversal of British policy is to be hoped for by our enemies or apprehended by our friends," said the conservative London Times.

"On the foundation of the British people's resolve to finish the labor they have undertaken, our foreign policy stands clear of the vicissitudes of party."

But domestically the cleavage with the conservative line was expected to be sharp. The triumphant Laborites were interpreting their landslide victory at the polls as a mandate from the British people to carry out their avowed program of nationalization of the coal and power industries.

Labor Scores Heavily

Final returns compiled throughout the country last night revealed that the Laborites and their endorsed candidates of other parties polled about 60 percent of the 24,981,951 ballots cast.

The combined opposition parties drew 15,047,378 votes and 417 seats in parliament, including 11,962,878 votes and 390 seats for the Laborites—the last a clear majority of the 640 house seats.

Against that, the government candidates won 9,934,573 votes and 210 seats, with the Conservatives claiming 9,018,235 votes and 195 seats for their own party.

The results of balloting for 12 other seats were expected to be announced shortly, and the 13th is to be decided in a by-election.

For Labor, the election resulted in a gain of 225 seats over the 165 commons delegates it had in the old "long parliament."

powers in recognizing the Madrid Fascists.

Observers thought Clement Attlee's substitution for Churchill in the current—and any future—big three conference would ease a situation which consistently has found the United States in the middle when the personalities or interests of Winston Churchill and Josef V. Stalin clashed.

Obstacles Listed

But there are some obstacles to a clear break away from the conservative or "imperialist" point of view which has determined British foreign policy for 200 years. Take Greece, where the Communist press alleges that a Fascist state is being set up under protection of British bayonets. The interests of Great Britain are enormous in the eastern Mediterranean, which is on the empire line to the Orient.

Some observers believe the alternative to British domination of Greece would be domination by Communist Russia. No British government, labor or otherwise, would lightly decide to order hands-off Greece if those are the alternatives. To do so might raise questions of policy and public interest on which the routed conservatives could seek to hit the come back trail.

Argentina 'Hot Potato'

Argentina is another hot potato for the British Socialists. The government of Argentine colonels has been Fascist in action and sympathies. But Argentina is an area of some of the largest and most important British investments.

The status of India and the British colonies lost to Japan in the Orient, now being won back indirectly by force of American arms, also will press for attention of the new government.

Any fundamental changes in British policy in any part of the world will have some impact on American foreign policy, notably in South America and Europe. The maintenance of Churchill in power would have been regarded here as a barrier raised against left developments, even Communism, in western Europe. The reversed outcome of the British elections apparently must be regarded as having made the government of western Europe toward the left a much easier and perhaps shorter process.

CIO Boosted

On our own political front the rise of labor in Great Britain is a big boost for the Congress of Industrial Organizations in the United States. In like degree it appears to be a blow to the American Federation of Labor. The AFL has abandoned its former close association with the now extremely powerful British Trade Union Congress. AFL leaders took a walk when the TUC welcomed Communist delegates to collaborate in setting up a new world federation of trade unions.

AFL leaders contend that there are no free trade unions in Russia and they refused to sit at the same table with the Communists. But the CIO jumped at the chance and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen also is cooperating in

Favors Labor Party

The AFL, also, has been a bulwark against the formation of a labor party in the United States. The CIO is not so choosy. Instead it seems to be moving slowly in that direction. Events in Britain may easily speed the movement. There is the practical objection, however, that election laws in almost all of the states are so written as to make the speedy creation of a new party almost impossible. A party could be set up a long haul basis but to create one in the space of a year or so looking toward immediate results would be very difficult.

Much simpler would be infiltration into one of the major parties to take its organization over lock, stock and barrel in as many states as possible. It may even work out that way, sometime.

Under cross examination Blum said he always insisted that the Vichy government was constituted illegally, as was the Riom supreme court, which heard the incomplete trial aimed at fixing war guilt in France.

Fernand Payen, chief defense counsel, plied Blum with questions as to Pierre Laval's influence on Petain.

"Laval was a master of the double cross," Blum said bluntly. "It is hard to fix the responsibility for the conduct of the Vichy government between Laval and the marshal. Whether he influenced Petain is a thing I cannot answer definitely."

Payen's insistence on this point indicated that the defense planned to make Laval's influence on Petain one of the main points in favor of the old marshal, setting up Laval as the one on whom the actual guilt reposed.

duced "to a race of rice growers and goatherds."

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced a new 400-ton raid on Shanghai that left great fires on three of the China ports' airfields Tuesday and probably sank six freight-transports and a Japanese gunboat.

About 20 B-24's of the U. S. Seventh Air Force flew unescorted over the Kikai island in the northern Ryukyus and Tsukui airfield on northern Kyushu Wednesday. They fought 30 Japanese fighters over Kyushu and shot down seven, with an eighth probable, and lost one bomber.

There was still no word of the whereabouts of Admiral William F. Halsey's Third fleet, travelling under a radio blackout for the past 36 hours.

In Borneo Australian troops pursued fleeing Japanese units along the main highway northeast of Balikpapan, after RAF Spitfires had intercepted one column and strafed 16 vehicles.

Australia's Prime Minister Joseph B. Chifley, in a statement to the house at Canberra today, said the Australian army's forces in action would be reduced from six to three divisions as operations permit. He also proposed that an Australian token force be permitted to participate in the coming battle for Singapore, so they may revenge their fallen or captured comrades.

Elaborating on yesterday's reports of an Allied landing Wednesday on Puket island, off the western coast of the Malay peninsula, the Japanese Domei agency said today a carrier-based aircraft attack had preceded the "futile attempt" as well as a naval bombardment.

The dispatch, recorded by the FCC, however made no mention of continued action today. It claimed, "the enemy was completely driven away in the afternoon of the same day (presumably Wednesday)."

Attributing its information to a Thai land army communique, Domei said approximately 20 carrier planes participated in the pre-invasion assault "on Tuesday" with a fleet of carriers, cruisers, destroyers and transports carrying out a bombardment "on the following morning."

OUT-OF-STATE WOMEN TO BE RESTRICTED AT OSU

COLUMBUS, O., July 27—An acute housing shortage for coeds at Ohio State University has forced the university to restrict its admission of out-of-state women for the coming year, Harold K. Schellenger, public relations director, said today.

The restrictions have taken the form of higher scholarship requirements than ever before, Schellenger said.

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. CATHERINE PEARCE

Mrs. Catherine M. Pearce, 46, of 313 West Corwin street, died at her residence at 7:30 p. m. Thursday. She had been ill since early in December.

She was born in Jackson township, Pickaway county, the daughter of Henry J. and Margaret Petty Shook.

She is survived by 2 daughters, Mrs. Marvin Sowers, Circleville, and Mrs. John Ward, Bremerton, Washington; 2 sons, Seaman First Class Adolphus Pearce, Jr., USCG, Richmond, California, and Seaman Second Class Glenn Pearce, USN, somewhere at sea; 1 sister, Mrs. O. A. Lanman, Williamsport; 4 brothers, Harry, Carl and Henry Shook of Columbus, and William Shook, Coshocton, and 4 grandchildren.

The body was removed to Deffenbaugh funeral home, pending completion of funeral arrangements.

MRS. ROSE HEDGES

Mrs. Rose Althea Hedges, lifelong resident of Walnut Chapel, died at her home near Ashville, Thursday at 10:30 p. m.

Born on April 5, 1863, the daughter of the late Absalom and Elizabeth Ward Nothstine, she is the widow of the late Chester B. Hedges.

Mrs. Hedges is survived by three sons, Walter, Howard and Roger of Walnut; one sister, Mrs. Fanny Rector, Walnut, and one brother, Edward Nothstine, Columbus.

Funeral services will be held at the residence at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, with the Rev. Dwight Woodworth officiating. Burial will be in Reber Hill cemetery, with arrangements by Schlegel funeral home in Ashville.

USES OFFICE TO CLOSE

The United States Employment Service office, located in the basement of the courthouse, will be closed all day Tuesday, election day, Miss Mary K. Wolfe, manager, stated. Election booths will be set up in the office.

the Potsdam conference and it appeared certain he would continue along the broad lines laid down by them in the international theatre.

"No violent reversal of British policy is to be hoped for by our enemies or apprehended by our friends," said the conservative London Times.

"On the foundation of the British people's resolve to finish the labor they have undertaken, our foreign policy stands clear of the vicissitudes of party."

But domestically the cleavage with the conservative line was expected to be sharp. The triumphant Laborites were interpreting their landslide victory at the polls as a mandate from the British people to carry out their avowed program of nationalization of the coal and power industries.

Final returns compiled throughout the country last night revealed that the Laborites and their endorsed candidates of other parties polled about 60 percent of the 24,981,951 ballots cast.

The combined opposition parties drew 15,047,378 votes and 417 seats in parliament, including 11-962,678 votes and 390 seats for the Laborites—the last a clear majority of the 640 house seats.

Against that, the government candidates won 9,934,573 votes and 210 seats, with the Conservatives claiming 9,018,235 votes and 195 seats for their own party.

The results of balloting for 12 other seats were expected to be announced shortly, and the 13th is to be decided in a by-election.

For Labor, the election resulted in a gain of 225 seats over the 165 commons delegates it had in the old "jong parliament."

powers in recognizing the Madrid Fascists.

Observers thought Clement Attlee's substitution for Churchill in the current—and any future—big three conference would ease a situation which consistently has found the United States in the middle when the personalities or interests of Winston Churchill and Josef V. Stalin clashed.

Obstacles Listed

But there are some obstacles to a clear break away from the conservative or "imperialist" point of view which has determined British foreign policy for 200 years. Take Greece, where the Communist press alleges that a Fascist state is being set up under protection of British bayonets. The interests of Great Britain are enormous in the eastern Mediterranean, which is on the empire line to the Orient.

Some observers believe the alternative to British domination of Greece would be domination by Communist Russia. No British government, labor or otherwise, would lightly decide to order hands-off Greece if those are the alternatives. To do so might raise questions of policy and public interest on which the routed conservatives could seek to hit the come back trail.

7. Withdrawal of occupation forces.

No mention was made of the Japanese emperor. The American attitude toward him has been the subject of bitter controversy. Officials explained that that issue was being left open—to be decided when Japan surrenders or is beaten to her knees. They emphasized that the proclamation does not prejudice the ability of the Allies to take any step they deem desirable on the emperor issue.

It is still an "open" question, they said, and the decision to treat Hirohito as a deceiver and betrayer of the Japanese people, or as one deceived and betrayed by his military advisers, will be made when more is known about conditions in Japan and the desires of the people themselves.

The Allied proclamation climaxed a period of wild rumor about peace bids and the situation in Japan. The Tokyo radio added to the speculation yesterday with a hint that Japan would surrender if unconditional surrender demands were modified.

SANTA FE SETS NEW RECORD FOR STEADY SERVICE

WASHINGTON, July 27—The light cruiser Santa Fe established a record of the longest front line tour for any major naval unit when she steamed more than 221,000 miles in 25 months without an overhaul, the Navy revealed today. Before returning to the West coast recently for routine repairs, the vessel sank seven Japanese ships and downed seven enemy planes while participating in 42 air strikes, 12 shore bombardments and four surface actions. During this tour of action, the Santa Fe did not lose a man or suffer any serious battle damage. The Santa Fe was the ship that came to the rescue of the stricken aircraft carrier Franklin when the carrier was damaged off Kyushu.

Commanded by Rear Adm. (then captain) Russell S. Berkey, of Lyme, Conn., the Santa Fe began her battle career in the Aleutians in April, 1943. Her next skipper was Rear Adm. (then captain) Jerauld Wright of Washington, D. C. Her present skipper is Captain Harold C. Fritz, of Somerville, Mass. The ship was commissioned at the New York shipbuilding Corp., Camden, N. J. in November, 1942.

SANTA FE SETS NEW RECORD FOR STEADY SERVICE

WASHINGTON, July 27—The light cruiser Santa Fe established a record of the longest front line tour for any major naval unit when she steamed more than 221,000 miles in 25 months without an overhaul, the Navy revealed today.

Before returning to the West coast recently for routine repairs, the vessel sank seven Japanese ships and downed seven enemy planes while participating in 42 air strikes, 12 shore bombardments and four surface actions.

During this tour of action, the Santa Fe did not lose a man or suffer any serious battle damage. The Santa Fe was the ship that came to the rescue of the stricken aircraft carrier Franklin when the carrier was damaged off Kyushu.

Commanded by Rear Adm. (then captain) Russell S. Berkey, of Lyme, Conn., the Santa Fe began her battle career in the Aleutians in April, 1943. Her next skipper was Rear Adm. (then captain) Jerauld Wright of Washington, D. C. Her present skipper is Captain Harold C. Fritz, of Somerville, Mass. The ship was commissioned at the New York shipbuilding Corp., Camden, N. J. in November, 1942.

BRETTON WOODS

IT is a quarter of a century since the sneering question was asked by a congressman at Washington, "What have we to do with abroad?" Much water has flowed over the international dam since then. We have fought and helped to win a great foreign war and are now engaged in fighting another; no lawmaker and few private citizens rise to challenge our government's strong, self-respecting position, at home and abroad. We are the foremost nation of the world, engaged in an intelligent and patriotic plan to join with other nations of good will, in the making of a peaceful and cooperative world.

Prominent among such efforts is a branch of international activity which has been much discussed but not understood so well as it might be. It bears the odd name of Bretton Woods, so called because of its meeting place in New Hampshire, and is devoted to international monetary agreements to put international finance and foreign exchange on a sounder basis. Without such procedure it would be very difficult to restore financial order in a world which, outside of our country, is still rather shaky. It does not dominate international finance, but serves a very useful and important service, especially as regards the removal of trade barriers.

COAL SCARCITY

SPEAKING of "carrying coals to Newcastle," Fuel Administrator Ickes says this nation will have to share its coal supplies with Europe, to prevent serious disorders. There will be 6,000,000 tons needed there, he says, by the end of this year. To meet such a demand, at least 30,000 miners will have to be released from the army to dig the coal. The shipping itself will be quite a problem. It may be impossible to get enough coal barges for that job.

And so it goes, on a dozen or maybe a score of domestic fronts. Every time a fellow turns around he sees some other job that has to be done, for this country or some other country, to keep the whole system from going to pieces. We'll get along somehow or other, but it may be a long, tough job getting back to normal.

BRITISH ELECTIONS

THE British started voting in their general election on July 9. More than three weeks have had to pass before results could be computed and announced. While there has doubtless been a good deal of argument over tea cups, in taverns and on street corners, with feeling running high in spots, yet taken as a whole the people are quite calm. With no bombs over the United Kingdom, they regard the Empire as still sound. Churchill or no Churchill, there'll always be an England.

It's a wonderful example of serenity and restraint under pressure. But, to borrow a phrase made famous by Ruggles of Red Gap about the British themselves, "It would never do with us!"

Hopes for Labor Advisory Council Seen Not Bright

Automobile Assembly Lines
In Full Tilt by September

Special to Central Press

● SECRETARY OF LABOR SCHWELLENBACH still hopes to have a labor advisory council but nobody has yet defined how it will be set up and how it is going to function.

In view of the split in labor's ranks—CIO, AFL, United Mine Workers, etc.—some union chiefs believe it would be extremely difficult to get a group together that would function harmoniously. It has been suggested that Schwellenbach continue seeing the representatives of the various labor units separately. During his first two weeks in office he called them all in individually and got their ideas.

Schwellenbach previously has stated he does not have any idea that he can end labor's present split. He said he was going to keep "hands off" the AFL-CIO feud.

● YOU CAN EXPECT those new 1945-46 passenger automobiles to start rolling off the assembly lines in something akin to peacetime fashion starting in September.

WPB thinks that not only will there be enough material for the industry to begin mass production next fall, but that supplies will increase so that the car makers can turn out more automobiles than originally planned.

Steel is the great factor, of course, and WPB is hopeful that this product will be available to back up its rosy outlook on the future of motoring.

Secretary
Schwellenbach

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

By JACK GAVER
(Subbing for Mallon)

NEW YORK, July 27—Do you know the difference between jazz and swing?

You don't? That's good, because there isn't any. And if anyone ever tries to tell you differently, you may safely quote Louis Armstrong, who said: "no matter how you slice it, it's still the same music."

The importance of avoiding these phony verbal distinctions lies in the fact that more and more people are coming to realize there are only two kinds of music—good and bad.

That's the attitude the younger musicians have toward jazz. When the thousands of American Federation of Musician members now in the armed forces bring their horns back to civilian life—headed by the Claude Thornhills and Bobby Byrnes whose bandleading careers were in the ascendant—they will find an infinitely broader field of opportunities. They will find that all the arbitrary boundary lines between classes of music have been torn down.

They will find Arthur Fiedler conducting the Boston Pops in Gershwin songs and the operatic sopranos and baritones singing tunes by Berlin and Kern, and on the other hand the Dorseys and Goodmans making guest appearances with symphony orchestras and bands like Leonel Hampton's experimenting with 30-piece string sections composed of symphony men. Events that were shocking a few years ago are commonplace today.

The concert field at last is wide open to jazz artists. Art Tatum, one of the world's greatest pianists, confined for years to night clubs where 75 people would constitute a dangerous and unlawful crowd, can now command $1,500 a night for concert dates, playing to people who never would have ventured to hear him elsewhere.

Along New York's Fifty-second street where jazz fashions are formulated you can hear the small-band swing styles of tomorrow taking shape in the hands of young musicians like Erroll Garner, Jimmy Jones, Charlie Parker and Dizzy Gillespie. Some of them reflect classical influences; many develop their new ideas with the help of faster minds and more phenomenal technique than the old-timers ever dreamed of.

These musicians are getting chances to display their talent in a manner seldom available to the prewar swing stars. The new jazz foundation has presented them at town hall in New York. Scores of new record companies are mushrooming up, bringing a jazz waxing boom without precedent.

Whether you like your music network-style, striving to sell soap with 60 strings, or swing street style, generating a dynamic beat with six men and no manuscript paper, there's going to be plenty of everything for everyone and those G. I. musicians coming home are going to find plenty of opportunities to take their place in the shape of things to come.

There are too many experiments these days noble in purpose, but pie-eyed in performance.

It's all right being a hero, but what our he-men want now is to wind things up and go home.

Seems as if too many people are setting themselves afire by smoking in bed.

Is it a sign of age when the comics seem less so? Or merely a sign of developing more important interests?

Abdominal Pain—Its Possible Cause

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WHEN pain develops within the abdomen, physicians refer to the condition as "acute abdomen." In children, acute abdomen may be a serious condition because the pain may be brought on by such conditions as appendicitis or a disorder known as intussusception, or telescoping of the bowel.

Of course, this telescoping causes the opening through the bowel to be blocked, cuts off the circulation to the bowel tissues, and then may result in gangrene or death of the tissues and rupture of the intestines.

Causes for Appendicitis
According to Doctor John L. Annan of Scotland, the most common serious cause for acute abdomen is appendicitis. Appendicitis tends to run in families. He also has noted that fair-haired persons are more likely to have appendicitis than those with a dark complexion.

Appendicitis may occur even in infants and becomes more frequent at the age of two years. In appendicitis in children, the attack as a rule, comes on suddenly with pain in the abdomen, then vomiting. The child looks ill, has a dry, coated tongue and is pale. Upon examination, there are usually tenderness in the right lower part of the abdomen and some spasm or stiffness of the muscles in this area.

Early diagnosis of intussusception is even more important than in appendicitis. The sooner the abdomen is opened and the telescoping of the bowel relieved, the more likely it is that the child will recover. Intussusception occurs earlier in life than does appendicitis, and it seems to affect boys more than girls.

It is important that an early diagnosis be made in both appendicitis and intussusception in order to give the best chances for a successful operation.

area. Often there is slight fever present.

If there is any doubt about whether or not acute appendicitis is present, Doctor Annan advises the maxim "When in doubt, operate." In other words, it is better to remove a normal appendix than to fail to operate when acute appendicitis is present, for when operation is not performed the appendix frequently ruptures and then peritonitis or inflammation of the lining membrane of the abdomen develops, and this is a serious disorder.

Intussusception, the pain also comes on suddenly. It is usually quite severe and in young infants is accompanied by screaming, with drawing up of the knees. Following the attack, the child looks pale and exhausted. The wall of the abdomen feels hard.

Early diagnosis of intussusception is even more important than in appendicitis. ### SYNOPSIS

Eleonore Lawrence, Air Raid Defense Center worker in Sweetburg—a town humming with war industry and rumors of saboteurs—has been the recipient of spy expose books, and wonders who the anonymous sender is. She secretly hopes it might be William Steuben, a friend of her brother Arthur, who had visited the Lawrences months ago, but from whom she had heard nothing since. One of the air raid officials showed distinguished looking B. Stead Jones how the Center operates. The Lawrence household, located on the lonely outskirts of town, consists of "Grandma" Lawrence, Sukey, Eleonore's small sister; and Mamma, maid of all work. Eleonore's brothers, Arthur and Eben, are in the Navy and Coast Guard respectively. Eleonore learned from Fannie Ederly, real estate agent, that the adjoining Wolfe estate has been leased by B. Stead Jones. She is visited by John Sabriski, member of America's Counter Intelligence Corps, who enlists her aid, much to Grandma's alarm.

CHAPTER FOUR

Sabriski explained that one of the C.I.C. agents was living with a group of aliens not far away and that he might be hard put to get his reports out promptly. He was under constant surveillance; writing letters would be difficult, and mailing them out of the question. A rural delivery mail box, used by many, would be a poor place in which to leave a C.I.C. report.

Her mind jumped ahead of him: Eleonore thought of Hickory, a tiny settlement of workers' one-story houses, a mile down the lane leading off November Road. A couple of men from Connecticut had bought an abandoned paper mill there and were using it to reclaim rubber from old tires. The smell was unpleasant and she seldom drove or walked that way.

"Is your man at Hickory?" she asked.

"Your guess at that is as good as mine," he replied briefly. "Now this C.I.C. man can walk along this road after work, at night. He could drop his report at some special spot."

Sabriski took the last cigarette from his pack, twisted the paper container and flipped it over to the side of the road. "Like that."

She nodded. "I see. Inside the empty pack."

His thin mouth lifted at the corner in something approaching an approving smile. "You could look each morning near your barberry hedge for a discarded cigarette pack. But perhaps he wouldn't get as far as this house."

"Then?" she leaned forward.

"Three other places," Sabriski drew a map from his pocket. "Now you go walking with your dog quite a bit. South of here, three-eighths of a mile from your gate, he will try to hit the big rock on the left side. The third place is at the five birch trees growing out of a single stump one-half a mile from your driveway. The fourth and last is a big tamarack tree on the right side, three-quarters of a mile from your gate. Is that clear?"

"Our hedge, the rock, the birches, the tamarack tree in that order? All on our road; none on the lane to Hickory?"

"Right!" He gave her more instructions: She must never appear to be hunting an object, no hint of her employment must ever escape her to man, woman or child; the coded message was to be sent to a certain address as soon as received.

"Could you tell me who chose me for this work?" Eleonore asked.

He shrugged. "I wouldn't know, and it's not essential, is it? In fact I don't know the name of the agent you're helping. I take orders and am only told enough to carry them out."

"No, it isn't essential," she said slowly. "The main thing is that I can be of some use."

Eleonore's eyes sparkled with emotion, the lamp making gold lights in her chestnut hair, but John Sabriski was not a susceptible young man or had other fish to fry, for he only said gloomily, "The weasels got a long headstart on us with their poison from Germany, all the Bunds and drilling, traitors sounding off, so now we've got to buck all that plotting with some snappy work of our own."

"We're training men in counter-espionage as fast as we can, but a whole of a big job is ahead of us, and we're short handed."

Soon Sabriski left. No taxi was waiting. He walked swiftly down the dark road.

Before Eleonore lowered a curtain, a reassuring gleam came through the trees in the direction of the Wolfe house further up the mountain. Not that she was afraid, but it was nice to have good neighbors within a short distance. Sabriski's visit made her feel uneasy, yet somewhat important.

If a boy, she would have gone into the service of her country like her brothers, but now, she rejoiced: I'm going to be of some use in stopping the enemy!

Her future quickly flowered into purpose and meaning. That stage of her life when she had grieved over the untimely death of Henry Winters, and when her affection leaned toward William Steuben, was definitely over.

Eleonore tiptoed through the dining room to get a drink of water in the kitchen. The swinging door to the pantry was propped open by a chair, occupied by Mrs. Lawrence. The poker from the upstairs fireplace rolled from her lap with a clang.

"Gran—you here?" she cried in dismay.

"Has he gone?" she croaked. "I came down the back stairs with the poker. Think I was going to leave you alone with a strange fellow like that?"

"You were listening?"

"Heard every word he said," Eleonore eyed her sternly. "No, you didn't. Repeat it to me if you did."

"One of our spies is living among those toughs at Hickory. We're to pick up all the empty cigarette packages from here to the tamarack tree."

The girl turned on the faucet and the running water smothered her audible groan. How many times had Grandma reddened their faces by the very things they didn't want told? She would relate it to Mamma, hint of it to chance callers, give it away to the grocery boy.

"Elmer Lawrence," scolded the old lady, "take that mad look off your face! My father had his arm shot off in the Civil War, and Hen, my baby, was killed in the last war. I guess I love this United States as much as you do!"

"No one was to know," The girl's eyes smarted. "We'd better go to bed now."

Somehow she must find a way to cork up Grandma.

Eleonore worked on her grandmother the next morning before breakfast. "I've decided to give it up; it's the only fair thing to do. The conditions were that I was not to reveal it to a living person." She met the torrent of protestations that she was a viperous child not to trust her own grandmother, implicitly. "No use, Gran. You'll even hint that Elmer is working for the F.B.I."

"I'll do nothing of the kind. I can keep as tight a mouth as anyone. Anyone—do you hear?" Her burning eyes riddled her granddaughter with scorn.

"Or you'll ask questions as to what I found."

The disappointment that overspread the old lady's face was pitiful. Finally she said firmly, "I will not!"

"No, Gran, I can read your thoughts. You'll want to be hearing if I had any luck. That's natural. But in this more than a man's life is at stake. It may be something that affects the war, everyone, if we whispered or winked that we knew there was a spy nest at Hickory—or some such thing."

"Get the Bible!" Grandma snapped.

Holding it in her withered hands Mrs. Lawrence swore that she hoped that she died in an Old Ladies Home if she ever revealed in any form or manner what she had heard the night before. Eleonore relented. "Pretend it was all a dream, Gran, something fantastic that happened in a dream, and forget it," she urged.

Grandma nodded.

BRETTON WOODS

It is a quarter of a century since the sneering question was asked by a congressman at Washington, "What have we to do with abroad?" Much water has flowed over the international dam since then. We have fought and helped to win a great foreign war and are now engaged in fighting another; no lawmaker and few private citizens rise to challenge our government's strong, self-respecting position, at home and abroad. We are the foremost nation of the world, engaged in an intelligent and patriotic plan to join with other nations of good will, in the making of a peaceful and cooperative world.

Prominent among such efforts is a branch of international activity which has been much discussed but not understood so well as it might be. It bears the odd name of Bretton Woods, so called because of its meeting place in New Hampshire, and is devoted to international monetary agreements to put international finance and foreign exchange on a sounder basis. Without such procedure it would be very difficult to restore financial order in a world which, outside of our country, is still rather shaky. It does not dominate international finance, but serves a very useful and important service, especially as regards the removal of trade barriers.

COAL SCARCITY

SPEAKING of "carrying coals to Newcastle," Fuel Administrator Ickes says this nation will have to share its coal supplies with Europe, to prevent serious disorders. There will be 6,000,000 tons needed there, he says, by the end of this year. To meet such a demand, at least 30,000 miners will have to be released from the army to dig the coal. The shipping itself will be quite a problem. It may be impossible to get enough coal barges for that job.

And so it goes, on a dozen or maybe a score of domestic fronts. Every time a fellow turns around he sees some other job that has to be done, for this country or some other country, to keep the whole system from going to pieces. We'll get along somehow or other, but it may be a long, tough job getting back to normal.

BRITISH ELECTIONS

THE British started voting in their general election on July 9. More than three weeks have had to pass before results could be computed and announced. While there has doubtless been a good deal of argument over tea cups, in taverns and on street corners, with feeling running high in spots, yet taken as a whole the people are quite calm. With no bombs over the United Kingdom, they regard the Empire as still sound. Churchill or no Churchill, there'll always be an England.

It's a wonderful example of serenity and restraint under pressure. But, to borrow a phrase made famous by Ruggles of Red Gap about the British themselves, "It would never do with us!"

Hopes for Labor Advisory Council Seen Not Bright | Automobile Assembly Lines In Full Tilt by September

Special to Central Press

● SECRETARY OF LABOR SCHWELLENBACH still hopes to have a labor advisory council but nobody has yet defined how it will be set up and how it is going to function.

In view of the split in labor's ranks—CIO, AFL, United Mine Workers, etc.—some union chiefs believe it would be extremely difficult to get a group together that would function harmoniously.

It has been suggested that Schwellenbach continue seeing the representatives of the various labor units separately. During his first two weeks in office he called them all in individually and got their ideas.

Schwellenbach previously has stated he does not have any idea that he can end labor's present split. He said he was going to keep "hands off" the AFL-CIO feud.

● YOU CAN EXPECT those new 1945-46 passenger automobiles to start rolling off the assembly lines in something akin to peacetime fashion starting in September.

WPB thinks that not only will there be enough material for the industry to begin mass production next fall, but that supplies will increase so that the car makers can turn out more automobiles than originally planned.

Steel is the great factor, of course, and WPB is hopeful that this product will be available to back up its rosy outlook on the future of motoring.

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

By JACK GAVER
(Subbing for Mallon)

NEW YORK, July 27—Do you know the difference between jazz and swing?

You don't? That's good, because there isn't any. And if anyone ever tries to tell you differently, you may safely quote Louis Armstrong, who said: "no matter how you slice it, it's still the same music."

The importance of avoiding these phony verbal distinctions lies in the fact that more and more people are coming to realize there are only two kinds of music—good and bad.

That's the attitude the younger musicians have toward jazz. When the thousands of American Federation of Musician members now in the armed forces bring their horns back to civilian life—headed by the Claude Thornhills and Bobby Byrnes whose bandleading careers were in the ascendant—they will find an infinitely broader field of opportunities. They will find that all the arbitrary boundary lines between classes of music have been torn down.

They will find Arthur Fiedler conducting the Boston Pops in Gershwin songs and the operatic sopranos and baritones singing tunes by Berlin and Kern, and on the other hand the Dorseys and Goodmans making guest appearances with symphony orchestras and bands like Leonel Hampton's experimenting with 30-piece string sections composed of symphony men. Events that were shocking a few years ago are commonplace today.

The concert field at last is wide open to jazz artists. Art Tatum, one of the world's greatest pianists, confined for years to night clubs where 75 people would constitute a dangerous and unlawful crowd, can now command $1,500 a night for concert dates, playing to people who never would have ventured to hear him elsewhere.

Along New York's Fifty-second street where jazz fashions are formulated you can hear the small-band swing styles of tomorrow taking shape in the hands of young musicians like Erroll Garner, Jimmy Jones, Charlie Parker and Dizzy Gillespie. Some of them reflect classical influences; many develop their new ideas with the help of faster minds and more phenomenal technique than the old-timers ever dreamed of.

These musicians are getting chances to display their talent in a manner seldom available to the prewar swing stars. The new jazz foundation has presented them at town hall in New York. Scores of new record companies are mushrooming up, bringing a jazz waxing boom without precedent.

Whether you like your music network-style, striving to sell soap with 60 strings, or swing street style, generating a dynamic beat with six men and no manuscript paper, there's going to be plenty of everything for everyone and those G. I. musicians coming home are going to find plenty of opportunities to take their place in the shape of things to come.

There are too many experiments these days noble in purpose, but pie-eyed in performance.

It's all right being a hero, but what our he-men want now is to wind things up and go home.

Seems as if too many people are setting themselves afire by smoking in bed.

Is it a sign of age when the comics seem less so? Or merely a sign of developing more important interests?

The new cars will have a number of substitutions which will not, however, be noticeable to the eye of the consumer, or affect performance.

For instance, substitutes for war-scarce tin must be found by the industry.

Nickel will be substituted for chrome in the "bright work." There will not be any burlap for a while in the upholstery. And there will not be all the types of upholstery fabric of peace years, but the available material will be adequate.

● BRITISH PRESS SPECULATION that the Earl of Halifax will not return to the United States after his forthcoming vacation visit home is not being taken too seriously by the British embassy in Washington.

As a Tory, Halifax might not be reassigned in case a labor government comes into power in England. His succession to the able Lord Lothian in the post after the latter's death was regarded here and there as a stepdown after serving as foreign minister and in the war cabinet.

But Halifax has arranged for a speaking tour in the United States that will take him into mid-October. So, at least he must be planning to return.

● THE BOMBARDMENT OF NORTHERN JAPAN by American battleships was not a hit-and-run affair.

There will be more of the same in the coming months and Japan's coastline railroads will be a prime target. German generals admitted that the collapse of Nazi armies was hastened by the smashing of communication systems.

Japan has the double task of moving her population out of bombed cities and transporting food and war materials. From now on she will be given little time to repair shattered factories and railroads.

Hydroelectric dams also will get their share of attention from the fleet and Army and Navy air forces. Japan depends greatly on such dams for her power.

By the end of summer, Japan's teeming millions probably will become cave dwellers.

Abdominal Pain—Its Possible Cause

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WHEN pain develops within the abdomen, physicians refer to the condition as "acute abdomen." In children, acute abdomen may be a serious condition because the pain may be brought on by such conditions as appendicitis or a disorder known as intussusception, or telescoping of the bowel.

Of course, this telescoping causes the opening through the bowel to be blocked, cuts off the circulation to the bowel tissues, and then may result in gangrene or death of the tissues and rupture of the intestines.

Causes for Appendicitis
According to Doctor John L. Annan of Scotland, the most common serious cause for acute abdomen is appendicitis. Appendicitis tends to run in families. He also has noted that fair-haired persons are more likely to have appendicitis than those with a dark complexion.

Appendicitis may occur even in infants and becomes more frequent at the age of two years. In appendicitis in children, the attack as a rule, comes on suddenly with pain in the abdomen, then vomiting. The child looks ill, has a dry, coated tongue and is pale. Upon examination, there are usually tenderness in the right lower part of the abdomen and some spasm or stiffness of the muscles in this area. Often there is slight fever present.

If there is any doubt about whether or not acute appendicitis is present, Doctor Annan advises the maxim "When in doubt, operate." In other words, it is better to remove a normal appendix than to fail to operate when acute appendicitis is present, for when operation is not performed the appendix frequently ruptures and then peritonitis or inflammation of the lining membrane of the abdomen develops, and this is a serious disorder.

In intussusception, the pain also comes on suddenly. It is usually quite severe and in young infants is accompanied by screaming, with drawing up of the knees. Following the attack, the child looks pale and exhausted. The wall of the abdomen feels hard.

Early Diagnosis

Early diagnosis of intussusception is even more important than in appendicitis. The sooner the abdomen is opened and the telescoping of the bowel relieved, the more likely it is that the child will recover. Intussusception occurs earlier in life than does appendicitis, and it seems to affect boys more than girls.

It is important that an early diagnosis be made in both appendicitis and intussusception in order to give the best chances for a successful operation.

"No one was to know." The girl's eyes smarted. "We'd better go to bed now."

Somehow she must find a way to cork up Grandma.

Eleonore worked on her grandmother the next morning before breakfast. "I've decided to give it up; it's the only fair thing to do. The conditions were that I was not to reveal it to a living person." She met the torrent of protestations that she was a viperous child not to trust her own grandmother, implicitly. "No use, Gran. You'll even hint that Elmer is working for the F.B.I."

"I'll do nothing of the kind. I can keep as tight a mouth as anyone. Anyone—do you hear?" Her burning eyes riddled her granddaughter with scorn.

"Or you'll ask questions as to what I found."

The disappointment that overcame the old lady's face was pitiful. Finally she said firmly, "I will not!"

"No, Gran, I can read your thoughts. You'll want to be hearing if I had any luck. That's natural. But in this more than a man's life is at stake. It may be something that affects the war, everyone, if we whispered or winked that we knew there was a spy nest at Hickory—or some such thing."

"Get the Bible!" Grandma snapped.

Holding it in her withered hands Mrs. Lawrence swore that she hoped that she died in an Old Ladies Home if she ever revealed in any form or manner what she had heard the night before. Eleonore relented. "Pretend it was all a dream, Gran, something fantastic that happened in a dream, and forget it," she urged.

Grandma nodded.

MOTHER AND FATHER

IF THE shuffle, cut and deal constitute the mother of a bridge hand, the bidding may be counted as the father. Both of them have an influence on the child—the play that climaxes their co-operation in the birth of the infant. Even if the deal winds up in the same contract at several different tables, the play can be terrifically different if the method of bidding was widely at variance.

What a variation was caused by West's first bid at the two tables. Of course the 2-Diamonds was the better call, with minor suits of equal length. Notice now the kind of play that resulted in the two instances.

At Table 1, play began with the club K, club A, club 7 ruffed by the spade 3 and the heart A.

ruffed by South with the spade 4. The two spade tops settled the defense trumps, the spade 7 was led to the 9, and then the heart K, heart Q and club 7 furnished three diamond discards for South. He later gave up one diamond trick and thus made his contract, doubled.

At Table 2, after the club K, West switched to the diamond 7 because of his partner's raise of that suit. The K won it and the club Q was scored. Then the diamond 2 put West in with the A. He scored the club A, setting the contract one trick, then led his club 8 as the fourth round of the suit, East ruffing with the spade 10, which forced a high honor from South, the A. That made certain that West would get a trump trick with his spade Q-J, which downed the contract a second trick.

COCA COLA WINS CLOSE CONTEST FROM PURINA 10

Dade's Run In Eighth Stops Mound Duel Between Hill And Twaddle

Coca-Cola edged Purina 3-2 in an interesting eight-inning game in the Night Softball league Thursday night in Ted Lewis park.

J. Dade's run in the eighth inning broke up a hurling duel between Twaddle and C. Hill. Twaddle lost control after striking out the first man up and gave up two walks which were followed by an outfield fly by E. Dade. J. Dade scoring after the catch.

Twaddle gave the winners only four hits but walked eight. He blanked them until the fifth when two walks, two fielder's choices and a hit netted a run. In the last of the seventh Coca Cola tied the score by making a run on two hits.

Both Purina runs came in the fourth. A walk, McCown's double and an outfield error accounted for the runs.

Tonight the league All Stars play 740 AC from Columbus.

'RED' RUFFING IN COMEBACK

Yankee Star Flashes Old Form; Cubs Win From Reds Again

NEW YORK, July 27—It's too bad Yankee manager Joe McCarthy wasn't around to see the old coal miner from Nokomis, Ill., Charley (Red) Ruffing make his comeback on the pitching mound after nearly three years in the Army.

It probably would have been more of a tonic than any medicine that could be prescribed for the veteran pitcher. Up in Buffalo where he is recovering from a nervous ailment that made him want to resign as manager, it must have made him feel as if old times were back again when big Red beat the Athletics, 13 to 4.

The entire team seemed to respond to Ruffing's return and that of his rookie battery-mate, Catcher Aaron Robinson. Together they formed baseball's first ex-G. I. battery in which both members had been major leaguers before the war.

Ruffing, whose 13 year career with the Yankees bears a remarkable parallel to McCarthy's, pitched the kind of a game for which he is famous. He knocked the heart out of the opposition by retiring the first seven men in order, six of them on strikeouts.

For six innings he gave up only two hits. The A's got to him in the seventh for two more hits and a run, but he blames his feat of hitting a three bagger in the previous inning for that.

The victory put the Yankees into a three-way third place tie with Chicago and Boston, four games out of the lead.

The Cubs capitalized on the appearance of their favorite opponents, the Reds, at Chicago, winning, 2 to 1, to give Hank Wyse his 14th victory. It was the ninth victory without a defeat for the Cubs over the Reds this season. Third Baseman Stan Hack drove in the winning run with a single. He also cut off the tying run in the ninth, ending the game by making a sensational stabbing catch of a liner by Gerald Walker. Bill Nicholson drove in the first Cub run off Ed Heusser with a triple.

The second place Cards remained four and a half games behind the Cubs, winning, 10 to 2, from Pittsburgh with an 18-hit attack on three pitchers. Rookie Ken Burkhardt had no trouble winning his 11th game as every starter in the Card lineup made at least one hit. Augie Bergamo made four in a row to run his string to seven for two games.

There were no other games scheduled.

COLONEL PITCHER HURLS NO-HIT, NO-RUN GAME

By United Press
Don Thompson pitched the Louisville Colonels to a no-hit, no-run game over the Indianapolis Indians yesterday, trimming the Indians' American Association lead to a scant half game margin over Milwaukee.

Thompson's teammates played errorless ball behind him, scoring eight runs on 15 hits for a 8 to 0 shutout victory. Indianapolis hurler George Jaffeau was the losing pitcher.

The Indianapolis-Louisville game was the only league contest scheduled yesterday.

740 AC TEAM TO MEET ALL STARS

Speed Races To Precede Game Set For Tonight In Ted Lewis Park

"Colored champions of Columbus" is the title carried by the 740 AC softball team which plays the Circleville All Stars at Ted Lewis park tonight at 9 o'clock.

Led by Pitchers Smitty Truss and Freddie Oden the team shows a healthy winning mark both in Columbus and in exhibition games on the road.

The All Star team is expected to be one of the best local teams ever put on the field. Managers have selected players for the team. Hobbie of Junior Chamber of Commerce and Easter of William-sport will be on hand to handle the pitching. Grover of Circle City and Stebleton of Junior Chamber of Commerce will do the catching.

Also on the roster are Toole, J. Gregg, Howard Wellington, Schleich, Dean, Seymour, Rowland, Byrd, Thomas, Shaw and Hines.

Preceding the game three track events are dated, three Circleville speedsters competing against three members of the 740 AC team. Rod Heine, Jack Hennis and Paul Seymour will race against "Popeye" Smith, Carl Byrd and Frank Smith of the AC team. Coach Roy Black, Circleville high school, will act as starter.

COCA COLA WINS CLOSE CONTEST FROM PURINA 10

Dade's Run In Eighth Stops Mound Duel Between Hill And Twaddle

Coca-Cola edged Purina 3-2 in an interesting eight-inning game in the Night Softball league Thursday night in Ted Lewis park.

J. Dade's run in the eighth inning broke up a hurling duel between Twaddle and C. Hill. Twaddle lost control after striking out the first man up and gave up two walks which were followed by an outfield fly by E. Dade. J. Dade scoring after the catch.

Twaddle gave the winners only four hits but walked eight. He blanked them until the fifth when two walks, two fielder's choices and a hit netted a run. In the last of the seventh Coca Cola tied the score by making a run on two hits.

Both Purina runs came in the fourth. A walk, McCown's double and an outfield error accounted for the runs.

Tonight the league All Stars play 740 AC from Columbus.

'RED' RUFFING IN COMEBACK
Yankee Star Flashes Old Form; Cubs Win From Reds Again

NEW YORK, July 27—It's too bad Yankee manager Joe McCarthy wasn't around to see the old coal miner from Nokomis, Ill. Charley (Red) Ruffing make his comeback on the pitching mound after nearly three years in the Army.

It probably would have been more of a tonic than any medicine that could be prescribed for the veteran pitcher. Up in Buffalo where he is recovering from a nervous ailment that made him want to resign as manager, it must have made him feel as if old times were back again when Big Red beat the Athletics, 13 to 4.

The entire team seemed to respond to Ruffing's return and that of his rookie battery-mate, Catcher Aaron Robinson. Together they formed baseball's first ex-G. I. battery in which both members had been major leaguers before the war.

Ruffing, whose 13 year career with the Yankees bears a remarkable parallel to McCarthy's, pitched the kind of a game for which he is famous. He knocked the heart out of the opposition by retiring the first seven men in order, six of them on strikeouts.

For six innings he gave up only two hits. The A's got to him in the seventh for two more hits and a run, but he blames his feat of hitting a three bagger in the previous inning for that.

The victory put the Yankees into a three-way third place tie with Chicago and Boston, four games out of the lead.

The Cubs capitalized on the appearance of their favorite opponents, the Reds, at Chicago, winning, 2 to 1, to give Hank Wyse his 14th victory. It was the ninth victory without a defeat for the Cubs over the Reds this season.

Third Baseman Stan Hack drove in the winning run with a single. He also cut off the tying run in the ninth, ending the game by making a sensational stabbing catch of a liner by Gerald Walker. Bill Nicholson drove in the first Cub run off Ed Heusser with a triple.

The second place Cards remained four and a half games behind the Cubs, winning, 10 to 2, from Pittsburgh with an 18-hit attack on three pitchers. Rookie Ken Burkhardt had no trouble winning his 11th game as every starter in the Card lineup made at least one hit. Augie Bergano made four in a row to win his string to seven for two games.

There were no other games scheduled.

COLONEL PITCHER HURLS NO-HIT, NO-RUN GAME

By United Press
Don Thompson pitched the Louisville Colonels to a no-hit, no-run game over the Indianapolis Indians yesterday, trimming the Indians' American Association lead to a scant half game margin over Milwaukee.

Thompson's teammates played errorless ball behind him, scoring eight runs on 15 hits for a 8 to 0 shutout victory. Indianapolis hurler George Jeffcoat was the losing pitcher.

The Indianapolis - Louisville game was the only league contest scheduled yesterday.

Beef Payments To Be Made To Farmers

CATTLE FEEDERS APPLY TO AAA FOR PAYMENTS

First Meat Production Subsidy Designed To Boost Production

Cattle feeders in Pickaway county are now filing applications at the county AAA office under the government's new beef production payment program designed to increase the production of meat. The method of payment is similar to the dairy payment program, also handled through the county AAA office, according to County AAA Chairman John G. Boggs. The payments are made by drafts issued by the county AAA committee.

The beef payment amounts to 50 cents per hundredweight on cattle weighing 800 pounds or more and selling for at least $14.55 anywhere in Ohio. Cattle sold outside the state must bring the zone rate where sold.

This is the first meat production payment made directly to the livestock feeder. The program is designed to help hold the line against inflation by preventing sharp increases in retail prices which might lead to uncontrolled increases in wages and other economic factors.

The beef cattle production payment is available to all feeders, including slaughterers who also are feeders, provided their cattle meet the program requirements.

To be eligible, a feeder must certify on his application (1) that he owned the cattle at least 30 days before the sale, (2) that the cattle weighed at least 800 pounds when sold, (3) that the cattle brought not less than the minimum price mentioned above, and (4) that the cattle were sold for slaughter to an authorized slaughterer or to another person who has delivered such animal to an authorized slaughterer within 29 days after such sale. An authorized slaughterer is any slaughterer who operates under Federal inspection or under an OPA permit at the time he slaughters the feeder cattle on which the payments have been made.

A feeder-slaughterer is eligible to receive payment provided payment has not previously been made on his cattle. He may also receive payment on cattle he raised provided they are eligible under the program. To collect the payment he must substantiate the date of purchase, the prices he paid, and the weight at the time of purchase. He also must certify the grade and weight of the carcass after slaughter to further determine the eligibility of the cattle.

A feeder other than a feeder-slaughterer must present sales receipts, invoices, scale tickets, or other written evidence from the buyer to verify (1) date of sale, (2) the name of the buyer, (3) the point of sale, (4) the number of head, (5) the total liveweight, (6) the price received, and (7) the name of the legally authorized slaughterer to whom sold.

In addition, the feeder, if he did not raise the cattle, must show the status of the cattle at the time he purchased them by furnishing the name of the person from whom purchased, and the date of purchase. The feeder may also be required to furnish evidence that the payment had not been made previously on these cattle.

Application for payment based on cattle sold May 19 through June 30 may be made at the county AAA office at any time on or before August 31. Application for payment based on cattle sold after

Dr. W. J. Smith, member of the state department of health, spoke to the Circleville Rotary club at the Pickaway Arms Thursday on the subject of "General Health and Poliomyelitis."

Dr. Smith told the Rotarians there were 1,102 cases of infantile paralysis in 1944 in Ohio, and that in the last 8 years, there had been 8 cases in Pickaway county. He added that all except one of the victims here had recovered. Poliomyelitis, he explained, is an acute infection caused by virus that attacks the nerve system, usually in persons between the ages of 10 to 19 years, although a younger child or an adult can become infected.

He described the various forms the paralysis took, and added that there are two accepted methods of treatment. He outlined the Australian Nurse and the Sister Kenny methods of treatment, and told of the operation of an iron lung.

Dr. Smith warned that most cases of poliomyelitis are developed during warm weather. The Children's hospital in Columbus, he concluded, is equipped to take care of any infantile paralysis cases which develop in this area.

Boyd Stout urged the Rotarians to recruit as many workers as possible for the canneries, which will be in need of help in a few weeks, when the local produce is ready for canning.

Visiting servicemen were How-

Beef Payments To Be Made To Farmers

CATTLE FEEDERS APPLY TO AAA FOR PAYMENTS

First Meat Production Subsidy Designed To Boost Production

Cattle feeders in Pickaway county are now filing applications at the county AAA office under the government's new beef production payment program designed to increase the production of meat. The method of payment is similar to the dairy payment program, also handled through the county AAA office, according to County AAA Chairman John G. Boggs. The payments are made by drafts issued by the county AAA committee.

The beef payment amounts to 50 cents per hundredweight on cattle weighing 800 pounds or more and selling for at least $14.55 anywhere in Ohio. Cattle sold outside the state must bring the zone rate where sold.

This is the first meat production payment made directly to the livestock feeder. The program is designed to help hold the line against inflation by preventing sharp increases in retail prices which might lead to uncontrolled increases in wages and other economic factors.

The beef cattle production payment is available to all feeders, including slaughterers who also are feeders, provided their cattle meet the program requirements.

To be eligible, a feeder must certify on his application (1) that he owned the cattle at least 30 days before the sale, (2) that the cattle weighed at least 800 pounds when sold, (3) that the cattle brought not less than the minimum price mentioned above, and (4) that the cattle were sold for slaughter to an authorized slaughterer or to another person who has delivered such animal to an authorized slaughterer within 29 days after such sale. An authorized slaughterer is any slaughterer who operates under Federal inspection or under an OPA permit at the time he slaughters the feeder cattle on which the payments have been made.

A feeder-slaughterer is eligible to receive payment provided payment has not previously been made on his cattle. He may also receive payment on cattle he raised provided they are eligible under the program. To collect the payment he must substantiate the date of purchase, the price he paid, and the weight at the time of purchase. He also must certify the grade and weight of the carcass after slaughter to further determine the eligibility of the cattle.

A feeder other than a feeder-slaughterer must present sales receipts, invoices, scale tickets, or other written evidence from the buyer to verify (1) date of sale, (2) the name of the buyer, (3) the point of sale, (4) the number of head, (5) the total liveweight, (6) the price received, and (7) the name of the legally authorized slaughterer to whom sold.

In addition, the feeder, if he did not raise the cattle, must show the status of the cattle at the time he purchased them by furnishing the name of the person from whom purchased, and the date of purchase. The feeder may also be required to furnish evidence that the payment had not been made previously on these cattle.

Application for payment based on cattle sold May 19 through June 30 may be made at the county AAA office at any time on or before August 31. Application for payment based on cattle sold after
